The Advisor web site was started three years ago to create an internet resource for parents, teachers and doctors of children with visual impairment. The site now has many interactive and multimedia pages that have been created by a coordinating committee consisting of an ophthalmologist, an optometrist, a medical librarian, internet developers and media specialists from Children's Hospital Boston, and an education supervisor and social worker from Perkins School for the Blind. Parents were involved the final year of the grant. The web address is
